Any product discrepancies must be notified to graysonline within 5 days of receipt of delivery, no responsibility will be taken by graysonline past this point There are some exceptions to this, however, if there are any successful bids on a particular lot within 10 minutes of the close of the online auction the "Going, Going, Gone. There is no limit to the number of times an online auction can be extended. This makes graysonline work more like a live auction where the bidding doesn't stop as long as there is still interest in the product, rather than assigning an arbitrary cutoff time. This means it is a good idea to watch the action as the auction nears closing time and to check back often All freight prices are charged from the originating warehouse to your delivery postcode and involve one delivery attempt by our nominated courier. The redelivery fee will be charged to the purchaser's specified account by GraysOnline and by bidding in this auction you authorize GraysOnline to debit your nominated account if a redelivery is required. No customer pickups are allowed from the warehouse unless specified in the sale overview or Freight Calculator due to Occupational Health and Safety reasons. Delivery Time Please allow up to 10 working days for delivery and we ask that you only contact the GraysOnline customer service team with any delivery enquiries after the 10 day delivery period has expired. Goods will be delivered too the address specified by the purchaser between 9am and 5pm Monday to Friday. Please ensure that your business hours delivery address is entered into your account details. Unfortunately as we strive to achieve faster dispatch times we are unable to change your delivery address details once the sale has closed. It is important that you make sure that your delivery address is correct before the auction closes.

The fact that they source products from different countries is a worry for a start. I would imagine that they just get the cheapest that can be manufactured at the time. The fact that they source products from different countries is a worry for a start. I would imagine that they just get the cheapest that can be manufactured at the time. But in my case, I have no complaints about the 7710 yet. It has performed flawlessly since its purchase 3 months ago. Good pic quality thru DVI to HDMI on a 67inch Samsung rear pro, fast channel changing, clear menu interface. Maybe DGTECH have improved. Ive had 3 HD7710s so far. Otherwise, the DVI picture wouldnt come on at all. I rang DGTEC very very dissapointed, and after a 25 minute wait, the tech guy proceeded to blame every piece of equipment but the box itself. Its the cable. Its the TV. Ill be going back there to exchange it for a different brand though as they suggested. Plasmafreak, are you using DVI Currently using component.

This is due to HD channels using AC3 Dolby Digital and SD channels using MPEG except for ABC which has both on SD. AC3 is usually not as compressed in both sound dynamics and data as MPEG. For example a loud bang or crash should appear comparatively louder then the base volume level in AC3 or HD channel then in MPEG SD channel. I saw this on a mates TV but all my HD channels just get shows as normal. This is due to HD channels using AC3 Dolby Digital and SD channels using MPEG except for ABC which has both on SD. For example a loud bang or crash should appear comparatively louder then the base volume level in AC3 or HD channel then in MPEG SD channel. So this is normal. I use the dvi output, it performs beautifully! I will be using DVI soon though. Currently using component. When you scan the available channels it selects them all as Favourites by default. Hopefully it will do the trick until the HD PVR makers get their act together. My only issue is that Im not able to deselect favourite channels. When you scan the available channels it selects them all as Favourites by default. Hopefully it will do the trick until the HD PVR makers get their act together. My HD7710 has been working perfectly since I bought it. I think this model is now starting to undo a lot of the DGTECH bad reputation. Like most monitors the plasma drops into standby 60 seconds after it is no longer receiving a signal. This is great because you never have to dig out the remote for the plasma. At first the guy at DGtec denied it was possible for the set to have a signal in standby. At first the guy at DGtec denied it was possible for the set to have a signal in standby. I might try the RCA cables and see if that helps the audio issue. Any way took the DGTEC back and upgraded to a LG PVR. The audio now does what it is meant to and the picture quality is way and above the dgtec. It was working before and now it isnt. I call up the DGTEC guys and im on hold for 35 minutes. I have moved and lost mine in the move and the Website has no info on it either. Then Pana 100e 720p projector. All good. I AM getting 5.1 on the HD channels if I MANUALLY select it then manually switch back to normal channels. Im using the optical out so ound quality is decent.
