I have been happy with this purchase thus far. Reviewed in the United States on March 24, 2013 Newer worked. After installation it makes loud noise. Called dealer and they called LG and LG keeps insisting that it was installation problem. After I talked to LG directly and convicted them to send technician to check the unit out. After 5 days technician showed up and he did not find any installation issue. He checked the dryer and found motor is bad and faulty code on the panel is due to front panel and control board so every major component is bad only thing is left is shell. In the process of opening technician brook top cover plastic latch cheap plastic. Now Dealer says that they can not replace the unit until LG authorize it and LG says that they have to repair it. Why should I repair brand new unit which was defective on arrival. Its been 17 days I am going back and forth between dealer and LG. I only have option to dispute the charges with my credit card company. I will never buy any LG product in future. I also brought along with dryer LG washer WT4870CW washer. It is also a crap. It is very confusing for my to operate.

After finishing wash cycle cloths are still wet. All cloths need to be manually squeeze to remove access water. Please try again later. From the United States Fits large items in it like down comforters. I have been happy with this purchase thus far. Please try again later. Please try again later. Owned By Sibes 4.0 out of 5 stars We didnt feel the need for the matching steam dryer, since we have that feature with our washer. The control panel is different and the metal rim on the dryer has a bit more of a gloss finish than the SteamWasher since they are different model designs. This isnt an issue for us, since the washer and dryer arent on display in the kitchen area, and they are in a separate laundry room. Other dryers Ive owned before this one Kenmore, Whirlpool and Amana all large super large capacity. Household 2 adults, 1 teen, 3 very furry Siberian Huskies as indoor family members. I dont LOVE the dryer like I do the SteamWasher, but I do like this dryer quite a bit. Yet, I have never loved any dryer that Ive had. My main issue has been that some loads may take an extra cycle or two to completely dry. This occurs with very large loads though. Our machine is also well balanced. One thing I have noticed though, I dont need as many dryer sheets as I use to use. Even with very large loads, 1 dryer sheet does the trick with keeping clothes static free. Larger loads and heavier materials, these do take a while longer to dry extra 12 cycles, depending on how wet the items come out of washer too. This dryer picks up a LOT of the fur, that our washer misses and the washer does get a good amount, and better than a top load and sends it to the lint filter screen. This is very nice, and our LG dryer works a lot better with removing fur than any of my previous dryers. Larger loads will have a little more fur, but still much, much less than our other dryers would perform. I havent had any issues with wrinkles or any damages to clothing, linens, bedding or even stuffed toys.

Stargazer Cat 2.0 out of 5 stars It will dry absolutely NOTHING on one sensor cycle, no matter how small the load or the type of fabric. And no matter how carefully you put the clothes in shaking them out first, and laying them carefully in the dryer it will wad them up into a tight little ball and wrinkle them beyond belief. NOTHING comes out wrinkle free, including permanent press. Im very disappointed in this dryer. Its already making noises and just plain doesnt work properly. I would definitely look elsewhere before buying this. Please try again later. Please try again later. This is NOT a review of the dryer itself, because I cant have one for insurance reasons see below. But Best Buy requires a star rating, so Ive put 3 stars solely to indicate my neutrality. In the past, LG washers and dryers were safety tested by UL Underwriters Laboratories, like most appliances made by US manufacturers. But in 2008 LG switched testing labs for their dryers, they told me; the current generation of LG dryers are now tested by CSA Canadian Standards Association instead. LG washers are still tested by UL. UL also confirmed that this dryer is not UL listed. But the issue isnt safety, its insurance the two labs are not always equal in the way theyre viewed by insurance companies, at least in the US. If your homes insurance policy is with an insurer that accepts only UL listed appliances, you may run the risk of not being covered if there were a dryer related home fire. The company insuring my home told me it will accept only the UL listing, so this LG dryer isnt an option for me. Are other US home insurers more flexible about testing labs. I certainly hope so, and I think LG wouldnt have switched labs if they werent confident of CSAs acceptance.

But in view of my experience, you might want to consider checking with your insurance company to confirm that it accepts the CSA listing in lieu of UL, before making a purchase decision. Besides, knowing your insurers position on testing labs is useful for future reference, when buying other appliances. And if it does accept the CSA listing, Im envious, and I hope you enjoy the dryer. DeanM We had the LG DLE2101W electric dryer delivered and installed a couple days ago. It was purchased to stack on top of our LG Steamwasher also awesome in order to save space, and the stacked setup is great. First off, Best Buy has great delivery people. The guys were in and out of our house in 10 minutes, and that included installing a new dryer vent hose, stacking kit, placing the dryer on top of the washer, and moving everything back into its place. The delivery team then ran a test cycle, and we immediately were wowed at how incredibly quiet this dryer runs. Im used to the oldstyle dryers we all grew up with, and they sound like semi trucks compared to this thing. Its next to our rec room in the basement, and its not audible when we watch a movie. After the test cycle, we washed a full 22pound load of cottons and then put them in the dryer. It took 25 minutes to dry everything completely. The drum is HUGE.there was at least as much room to spare as there were clothes loaded. You could easily dry a king size fluffy comforter in this thing. Also, we did not use dryer sheets, just fabric softener in the wash cycle, and everything was soft and static free. The cycles are incredibly easy to use. If you use the sensor cycles, just turn the dial to the type of fabric and hit start.thats it.

The manual cylcles of Air Dry, Speed Dry, Freshen Up, and Timed Dry allow you to customize things, but its not even necessary with how great the sensor system works. You can also save one custom program if you like certain settings. We did consider getting the steam dryer thats meant to pair with our washer, but this model DLE2101W matches great. The only difference is the LCD screen is smaller and a different style. Theres no need to get a steam dryer if you have the steam washer. You can always steam fresh your clothing in the washer and then do a quick dry in this awesome dryer. I would highly recommend the DLE2101W if youre looking for a fast, userfriendly, and huge capacity dryer. We bought it on sale with free delivery, so we also bought the 3 year Best Buy extended warranty since we saved so much on the price. Its aweome.get one. I would recommend this to a friend Helpful 5 Unhelpful 0 Report Comment chuckbad chuckbad Rating 5 out of 5 stars with 1 review Huge, Fast and Super Dry Posted 9 years ago.It dries huge loads of clothes quickly and completely. The drying sensor is excellent. It will dry even a huge load of towels. My only advice is to not mix a load of heavy bath towels with regular clothes because they do not dry at the same speed. Do the towels and clothes separate and you will always get outstanding results. It has a very easytouse interface. I love that I can adjust the volume of the buzzer. I also like the light inside the dryer. I would recommend this to a friend Helpful 15 Unhelpful 0 Report Comment Anonymous Anonymous Rating 5 out of 5 stars with 1 review Really Like it. Posted 10 years ago. I dont know if it is because the washer spins the water out of the clothes so much better than our old traditional machine, or if this Dryer is just that much better than our old Dryer. Either way, we really, really like it. I just wish the Buzzer was louder. Our Laundry is in our basement, and you cant hear the buzzer when the clothes are dry.

The light inside of the Dryer is a nice little idea that I hadnt seen before. It helps find that missing sock. Of course neither Home Depot or Best Buy had them in stock and they had to be ordered. Ours came in 1 day ahead of schedule which helped since our old dryer was broken the real reason for the purchahse in the first place. You had better go pick it up yourself if you are needing it anytime soon. Had it for about 10 weeks now. Wonderful Quality and Very Fast to Dry even HUGE loads. Researched alot of models before I chose this one and really pleased with my purchase. Bought the matching Washer and Stacking Kit to go with it and the set fits nicely in my small laundry nook. My husband and I were able to do it ourselves but it wasnt the best decision even though it worked out alright. This has been especially true for sheets which tend to get tangled up and towels and jeans denser items. I would recommend this to a friend Helpful 6 Unhelpful 1 Report Comment vzinc3 vzinc3 Rating 5 out of 5 stars with 1 review Just what we needed.great value Posted 9 years ago.Great washer and Dryer to say the least. We had whirlpools HE before moving and having to leave our old set behind. Wanted to upgrade a bit.but not buy the Bentley version if you know what I mean. This set had many of the features that we were looking for plus many more. The thing actually sings a little tune when its finished with your cycle.

Most importantly it has a child lock feature that my two year old cant seem to crack, but is very simple for daddy to operate. Short cycles and delicate cycles. Lpatterson90 The selection of dryer settings, its just enough for someone thats not very high tech. It holds quite a bit of clothes. I even like the feature that when I open the door the light comes on so I can be sure I didnt leave anything behind in the dryer. Im very pleased with my new dryer as it is easy to use. I had an older style dryer and always had to dry clothes twice. This dryer has an extra large tub and no matter how much I put in there. And it has different settings for speed dry, freshen up, towels, delicates, etc. A lot easier to use than figuring out the dial knob on the old dryer!! I also purchased the matching washer with it and love it the same. The setup was extremely easy and the usage is very user friendly. Clothes come out looking clean and fresh. The dryer is extremely quite and gets the job done in half the time of a normal dryer. Love it, love, love it.

BrgnOnlneShpr I purchased the LG stand up washer and dryer set. I have to say I am pleased so far with the dryer, it definitely gets the job done, though I will say the washer spin cycle gives the dryer a break from running a long time. I will say though that on the washer I am disapointed. I dont think the washer cleans as well as my old top loader washer did. Our household wears alot of whites and I always put bleach in with the whites and it does not keep them or get them as white or bright. I love the dryer, but I think the washer is a somewhat of a let down. Good set though for the sales price we got them for. Posted 9 years ago. RichfromDowningtown Unfortunately, our LG dryer which weve had for just a year and 3 months has died. apparently it needs a new motor, which, will cost more than half of what we paid for the dryer. Wed purchased both an LG washer and this dryer at Best Buy our experience with Best Buy was excellent! and will definitely NEVER buy another LG appliance. If the dryers motor could fail so early in the products life and were not heavy users, either we only have to dry clothes for 3 people then LGs quality leaves an awful lot to be desired. My previous dryer that this one had replaced was nearly 20 years old and only ever needed one minor repair. We couldnt be any more disappointed in this LG product or with LG as a company I did call customer service to see whether theyd stand behind their product. with them knowing full well that the motor should certainly not fail so early in the products life and will NEVER buy LG again. Hold times are long. If the dryer is noisy the roller may be worn and requires replacement. Includes the roller shaft and mounting clips. As the bearing in the roller wears, it selflubricates so no grease is needed. If the dryer is noisy then one or more of the rollers may be worn. The rollers should be replaced in sets either both front or both rear. If the dryer overheats, the thermal fuse blows to cut off power to the dryer. If the thermal fuse has blown, the dryer wont start. The thermal fuse cannot be reset—if the fuse has blown, replace it. Thermal fuses often blow due to a clogged vent. The drive belt is a very long, slender belt that wraps all the way around the dryer drum, around a tension pulley, and then around the drive motor pulley. If the drum will not turn when the dryer is turned on the belt is likely broken. If the dryer timer does not advance properly inspect the moisture sensor bars for damage which can cause the automatic drying cycle to not work properly. Proper air flow is critical to dryer operation so the filter should be cleaned before every load. Replace the filter if it has any tears or rips in it. If the dryer no longer heats then the heating element may have failed, but it is not the most common cause. The most common cause for a dryer to stop heating is a blown thermal fuse. If the thermistor is defective, it can prolong or shorten the drying time or cause a fault code. A defective thermistor is not responsible for a dryer not heating. L25788F, L12531C. The highlimit thermostat cuts off power to the dryer if the dryer overheats. If the dryer wont heat, the highlimit thermostat may have blown. Be aware gas models cannot vent to the right.
