These decisions are crucial to businesses as they expect their business telephone systems to stay in service for between 5 and 10 years, providing they are maintained correctly. This is where the Account Management Team and customer need to spend time understanding how hunt groups, auto attendants and specific digital extensions are to be configured. This stage of the process must be done correctly and due consideration is given by both the customer and Telecoms Service Provider. This combination of a free SIP Trunking trial and the Samsung OfficeServ, leaves customers with absolute confidence that they do not need to commit to the product until they have used it, ensuring peace of mind that we stand by the reliability and connectivity we provide.
